Your Programs, Your Story

Something important struck me as School of Love recently finished off a number of programs which are now available to many people in many places. When an offering goes out our door and into yours, it no longer belongs to us but instead belongs to the couple or family who uses it. Now the story that matters is their story.

So it's been an encouragement and a joy—and honestly a relief—in the past weeks to see and hear where, and how, and why our offerings are being used. Our hearts continued to be warmed and surprised to see our newest event, PlayDate, becoming a growing community that welcomes new moms, new families to the area, and new friends together with old ones.

Our Small Groups for couples are expanding not simply because they're unique and because we promote them, but because, like with one particular couple we just heard from, it has been used to strike their heart, and they want to be ambassadors to expand this all the more.

Gratefully,
Mike & Kristi Dennihan

Our well-loved family prayer program, Pier, was recently described by the father of a large family as “the thing” most suited to deepen the family in the home.

Our couples video library in a few weeks time received, almost verbatim, the same praise in Kansas as it did in Idaho for the impact it could make on houses in the country.

I say “our” programs, but it's more accurate to say “your” programs. It is a humbling thing to play this role that we do in a project bigger than ourselves. And you too have played a part in this project, by your presence, your participation, or your partnership as donors. I hope you can know our great thanks for your generosity. More still however, I hope you can understand in humility and in gratitude the vital part you play in the stories of couples and families you are blessing.

I hope this note conveys even a sliver of the humility, the appreciation, and the thanks we have for you.

2024 At A Glance

- Made couple Small Group content (and new group onboarding) available digitally online to make it available for new groups across the country.
- Started new recurring parent and child event, PlayDate, with great success as a front door into SL for younger families and new participants.
- Uploaded & categorized entire Video Library (currently 60+ videos) on site as most comprehensive topical Catholic marriage and family video library available.
- Initiated important Strategic Partnerships (with national recognized institution and nationally recognized college) for promotion and projects.
- Filmed new Promo Video that debuted at gala and will be used in many facets.

Looking Ahead to 2025

- Expanding Digital Programs Pier and Here's to Fulfillment into more homes through the country.
- Growing Live Programs (KC), in part through partnerships with ministries, institutions, and parishes lacking marriage and family programming.
- Bulking up staff and infrastructure (both operations & ministry) to meet increasing needs and demands for families currently and not yet in network.
- More ongoing delivery of immediately implementable content... directly into your home.
